

Alec Soth's Archived Blog

July 26, 2007

Am I crazy, or are there bunnies and circles everywhere?

Filed under: circles n\ bunnies — alecsothblog @ 9:42 am

13 Comments

1. You're not crazy..... http://thumbs.ebaystatic.com/pict/7159964610_0.jpg

Comment by Sara Code-Kroll — July 26, 2007 @ 10:53 am

2. Wof, says that not available for my area (uk?)

Comment by Joni Karanka — July 26, 2007 @ 11:03 am

3. Try this:

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=-3720204849627410914&q=%22hare+we+go%22&total=5&start=0&num=100&so=0&type=search&plindex=0>

Comment by Alec Soth — July 26, 2007 @ 11:12 am

4. nothing to do with circles, but worth noting:

http://www.spiegel.de/fotostrecke/0,5538,PB64-SUQ9MTg0NzMmbnI9Mg_3_3,00.html

Comment by einars o — July 26, 2007 @ 12:38 pm

5. Is this where I make a Vincent Gallo reference?

Comment by Joe Reifer — July 26, 2007 @ 2:48 pm

6. Draw a bunny:

<http://learn-how-to-draw-now.com/Bunny-Step-1.html>
(scroll down)

Comment by Annabel Clark — July 26, 2007 @ 3:54 pm

7. Genius, Annabel, Genius!

Comment by Alec Soth — July 26, 2007 @ 4:33 pm

8. Hey Alec,

I'm not one to toot my own horn much, but what with your current topic I thought I would mention my series ANIMAL HOLES. Rabbits and Circles in the real world..

<http://www.eirikjohnson.com/animalholes/animalholes.html>

Comment by Eirik — July 26, 2007 @ 6:13 pm

9. Eirik, please, er, toot away. I'm a big fan, of course, and the new animal holes are great. But have you thought about printing them round?

Comment by Alec Soth — July 26, 2007 @ 6:23 pm

10. Bunnies might be everywhere (if you're looking for them) but that doesn't absolve you of being crazy... or should I say: harebrained?

Comment by Jen Bekman — July 26, 2007 @ 7:20 pm

11. Circles and bunnies — in Mexico, and maybe elsewhere, they do not see the man in the moon, they see the rabbit in the moon. And once you see it, the guy vanishes forever.

Comment by Uncle D — July 26, 2007 @ 9:23 pm

12. Bunnies everywhere, here's one you might see from the moon. (by 'gelitin')
http://www.gelitin.net/mambo/index.php?set_albumName=album14&option=com_gallery_proj144&Itemid=91&include=view_album.php

Comment by christoph — July 27, 2007 @ 4:44 am

13. No, you're definitely not crazy. Herewith, a group of even more circles by someone who has been doing them for years . . .

http://www.charlesguice.com/artists_cmw.html

And here's a story about both circles and, uh, bunnies. Now I don't have any pictures, but there's a fairly large roundabout in Münster, Germany, where quite a few rabbits—okay, I'll stick with calling them "bunnies"—pretty much live a carefree life.

They come from all over the city, and they're relatively safe from dogs and other predators. Why? Three or four lanes of traffic encircle the roundabout. Now, of course, there's the downside to the bunny heaven; they have cross three or four lanes of traffic to get to the roundabout to begin with . . .

Comment by Charles Guice — July 30, 2007 @ 12:49 am