

Alec Soth's Archived Blog

September 30, 2006

On the road

Filed under: psa — alecsothblog @ 11:15 pm

I'm leaving for a couple of weeks in Texas. I reckon the blog postings will be far and few between.

Independent Texas gubernatorial candidate Kinky Friedman, left, with former Minnesota Gov. Jesse Ventura, made a campaign stop Tuesday to visit students at Trinity University in San Antonio.

Eric Gay
Associated Press
Published September 26, 2006
©2006 Star Tribune. All rights reserved.

8 Comments

1. Vote Kinky!!

Comment by Chase Browder — September 30, 2006 @ 11:27 pm

2. I just left Texas about 2 months ago for grad school in Atlanta. Too bad you weren't out there any earlier. Where will you be going?

Comment by Walker — September 30, 2006 @ 11:53 pm

3. Hi Alec,

Looks like there is a FAQ question "do you pose your subjects" showing up in my RSS feed but not on your blog. I'm interested in the answer to this.

Thanks
Paul

Comment by Paul McEvoy — October 1, 2006 @ 2:00 pm

4. what are you working on in texas?

Comment by bryan schutmaat — October 2, 2006 @ 7:17 pm

5. Governor Ventura has really let himself go.

Comment by Eliot — October 3, 2006 @ 9:45 am

6. Hi Alec,

I am a chinese photographer, I like your pictures and I got your photo book last week. I hoped to got a chance to communion with you, about photography, anyway, wellcome to China and to Guangzhou where I live, that is a city in southern china, hot and wet, but is more open than other chinese city.

Qin Wengang

Comment by chinese photographer — October 3, 2006 @ 9:50 am

7. Texas is a rhinestone in a gem world. I love it there as I was born and bred and thus required to. I hope you enjoy yourself. Have a few tacos and a big red if you get the chance.

Comment by catharine — October 3, 2006 @ 6:24 pm

8. Why not have your wife post? It seems it might be of interest to your readers to get her thoughts on some of the things you're writing about here.

Just a thought.

Cheers,

Sean Cayton

Comment by Sean Cayton — October 4, 2006 @ 12:54 pm