

Alec Soth's Archived Blog

August 7, 2007

Charter members

Filed under: photographs (mine), vernacular & Flickr — alecsothblog @ 12:18 am

Check out these Niagara motel photos by Scott Jackson, Alana Celii, Kevin Lamb, Irina Souiki, Mario Klingemann and Michael Veit. I wish I'd taken this towel picture by Michael Farley:

Windsor/Detroit Hotel by Michael Precid

9 Comments

1. Where art thou my dumb god?
Anybody who finds my tripod holes
will be my good bud.

Comment by Zoltán — August 7, 2007 @ 1:11 am

2. wish I had taken this one by him.
<http://www.flickr.com/photos/precid/204508224/in/set-72157600198454597/>

Comment by dan banda lee — August 7, 2007 @ 7:50 am

3. my homage whilst on tour with a band I saw this and thought of Niagara.

Comment by Owen Richards — August 7, 2007 @ 9:22 am

4. Really? i just dont get it, just my opinion.

Comment by Paul — August 7, 2007 @ 11:34 am

5. Alec: You have a keen eye, but I believe that is a robe not a towel.

Comment by JA — August 7, 2007 @ 1:21 pm

6. Precid? Farley?

Comment by Robin Dreyer — August 7, 2007 @ 4:47 pm

7. Thanks for the flickr tour! It's always interesting to see how different people see the same things. For me, being from Rochester which is not too far, I remember going to the falls as a child and hanging out at the Rainbow Mall, meeting the tallest woman in the world at Ripley's, and serving as an impromptu witness at a wedding. Niagara continued in my consciousness as the place where we drove when we were 19 to go to bars and buy alcohol. Ah the memories....

Comment by Leslie Brown — August 7, 2007 @ 7:34 pm

8. [...] In response to my own previous posts on lighting, and in response to other's posts about motels and other things. [...]

Pingback by SPEAK, SEE, REMEMBER » Blog Archive » Pink and Purple — August 8, 2007 @ 2:12 pm

9. I went to Niagara Falls today and thought of you, Alex, how could I not ?

Didn't stay too long but shot off a roll or two before realising my work was done, I had seen it, and it was time to get back to Toronto and plan how I should continue my trip west.

I almost ended up bookng something that would take me through Minneapolis, but its looking like ending differently. Montana is a hard place to get to.

Robert

Comment by robert phillips — August 9, 2007 @ 12:05 am