

Alec Soth's Archived Blog

July 24, 2007

Full Circle

Filed under: circles n\` bunnies — alecsothblog @ 10:57 am

Boy holding bunny near house in Wisconsin, ca. 1870, by Andreas Larsen Dahl

- See a larger image of the boy holding a bunny here
- See more of Dahl's circular photographs here

5 Comments

1. Alec

There is something so invigorating about your blog. Its exciting to be here. I believe in you. Honest and natural come to mind.
yours, wra

Comment by w robert angell — July 24, 2007 @ 12:15 pm

2. Alec,

I just happened to stumble across your blog. This blog is such a fresh approach to photography in general. Love your sleeping by the mississippi work and all your other work that I've seen.
Mike

Comment by mike — July 24, 2007 @ 4:35 pm

3. Winslow Homer:

http://www.clarkart.edu/museum\_programs/collections/photographs/content.cfm?ID=63&marker=6&start=6&nav=1

Comment by tom — July 24, 2007 @ 8:55 pm

4. [...] Early this week I wrote about human vision and the scarcity of circular photographs. This led to a post about the retinal photograph of a rabbit and a couple of posts about circles and bunnies (here and here). All of this got me thinking about avant-garde cinema. Surely there must be a film about bunny-eyes?
[...]

Pingback by alec soth - blog » Blog Archive » Circles, Eyes, Rabbits and Avant-Garde Cinema — July 25, 2007 @ 11:03 pm

5. Know about the "Squared Circle" group on Flickr? Endless iterations on the titular theme.

Comment by Gilbert Subrosa — September 27, 2007 @ 12:21 pm